NUMBER 74

The city of Council Bluff was visited by a heavy rainfall last evening, which caused several deaths and great destruction to property.

Mr. Conkling goes to Kansas City to defend the oleomargarine manufacturers of Missouri. The case comes up in the United States court.

Every prominent democratic leader in the country is wearing a lightning rod in hopes that the presidential flash will strike him next year.

Mr. George M. Pullman has more money than he can use profitably, and will therefore build a five hundred thousand dollar hotel in New York.

What Brooklyn and New York need in connection with their bridge are some cool-headed policemen to stand guard at the bridge. But that kind of policemen are not often seen in New York.

Mr. Blaine has never spent a summer at a fashionable resort. He is a man of business, with practical ideas, and can't afford to throw away his time at places where people congregate in hot weather to loaf and show their costly turnouts.

Mr. Salmi Morse, who tried to get the "Passion Play" on the New York stage, is crushed, disappointed, and sad, and will retire from the theatrical business and go to a monastery. Messrs. Burleigh, Mills and Stafford should go with him.

The present star route trial will have lasted six months next Monday with almost daily sessions since the fourth of December. By the time Dorsay and Brady pay the fees of their lawyers their star route funds will be pretty well exhausted.

President Arthur is still on the track of reform. He has determined to reduce the internal revenue districts in the country from 125 to 96. The order will go into effect on the first of October. In this business of reform the president is doing the will of the people.

It seems at last that Senator Anthony will triumph over death. His physicians unanimously agreed at one time that he couldn't live through the night, but he did, and the other day he rode down to the Journal office in Providence, and made the statement that he would sit in the Senate next winter.

A Washington dispatch says that John F. Hazelton, of New York, has been appointed consul for Hamilton, Ontario, in place of Mr. Frank Leland. Should this report prove true, there will be general regret in this state, as Mr. Leland is not only popular in Wisconsin, but he has made an exceedingly efficient consul.

The children of Peter Cooper propose to be as philanthropic as their father. At the 24th annual commencement of Cooper Union, Congressman Hewitt, son-in-law of the late Peter Cooper, announced that during the year they would add $100,000 to the $100,000 bequeathed to the institution in the will of the deceased philanthropist.

The Evening Wisconsin says: "Interest state papers are throwing out ominous hints of a plan now being hatched for blowing up the dam at the foot of Lake Winnebago with dynamite. The men whose property is injured by repeated overflows have tired of waiting for the government engineers and contemplated a little night engineering on their own account."

The legislature of Pennsylvania is a dissembler to that state. It has been in session several months and has done nothing of which it can feel proud. One of its latest blunders is to fix the compensation of its members at $1500 for each regular session, $10 a day for extra sessions, $100 each for stationery, and mileage at the rate of 20 cents a mile. The members are now paid $10 a day.

The Rev. Dr. Miner says he has married 2,565 couples and he finds great satisfaction in saying that only three of them have ever applied for a divorce. Dr. Miner is a Universalist, and he considers that "the state of mind which brings people to a clergyman of that denomination for union is that which will enable them to live happily together after they are married." However that may be, the doctor's success in tying knots that don't untie, is remarkable.

The Inter Ocean is authority for the statement that an Ohio railway company is experimenting with a new system of counting time, and has its schedules read from 1 to 24 o'clock. In this way 2 p.m. is 14, and 10 p.m. 22 o'clock. The manager of the road believes that a great deal of confusion and many accidents have resulted from mistaking a.m. for p.m. on the running cards, and vice versa, and is determined to give the larger circle a fair trial.

It is very true that the overseers of Harvard college have given Governor Butler the "boom." This is one of the results of stupidity, and want of judgment. The Harvard overseers should have been manly enough to tender the degree of doctor of laws to Butler, and then if a pettish freak should lead him to decline the honor, Harvard would have been right before the world, and Butler would have been without a boom. It would not be surprising if this piece of partisan spite should prove an admirable campaign document for Butler next fall.

There is a new opera house being built

Over 250,000 Howe Scale have been in New York—at thirty-ninth street and Broadway—which will be one of the most perfect places of amusements in the world. It is being built by the richest society people in that city, some of whom have taken life boxes. There are 216 of these boxes taken, and among the number are all the Vanderbilts, the Astors, James Gordon Bennett, Judge Hilton, Whitelaw Reid, and many other persons of great wealth. Each of these boxes will comfortably seat six persons, and will be provided with velvet carpets and richly upholstered reclining chairs. The cost of the building will not be far from one million.

Thus early in the campaign the democrats are making war on protection. Their free trade clubs are having frequent meetings. Their newspapers are constantly heaping abuse on the American system of protection. There is nothing else for the democrats to talk about. It is like a drowning man reaching for a straw, but it is their only hope. They don't take the history of the past from which to learn lessons of wisdom. They cling to theories and give the practical a cold shoulder. They don't tell the people that under protection the manufacturers of the United States have prospered far beyond anything ever known during the periods of free trade. They don't say that to-day the purchasing power of a day's wages is greater than when the country was struggling with free trade. They try to keep the fact from the people that manufacturing industries, capital, production, and employment of labor, have increased in greater proportion than the population. There are a good many other points of much importance in discussing free trade, that the democratic free traders make no mention of. These points would not be good for them side of the question, and they hide them from public notice.

The present star route trial will have lasted six months next Monday with almost daily sessions since the fourth of December. By the time Dorsay and Brady pay the fees of their lawyers their star route funds will be pretty well exhausted.

The Chicago Journal in answer to this very pertinently says: "That is a very good reply, but while the publication of these fine discourses is quite commendable, we do not notice any diminution of the regular amount of 'wash of scandal and crime' in the columns of any of these enterprising newspapers. It is the money of the syndicate that is the real culprit, and the publication of Spurgeon's, Beecher's and Swing's sermons is a recognition of their fine discrimination which it is a pleasure to us to make.

At midnight the general gloom which had fallen over the city was increased by the continuance of the rain. Although the creek seemed to have spent its fury, the water in the western and southern parts of the city was rapidly rising, and many people were compelled to take boats and escape.

The facts as to the amount of devastation by the storm is impossible to give at this time, but the loss to the city alone will be hundreds of thousands, besides that of private individuals.

ON THE WAR PATH.

Jub's Band Suddenly Makes Its Appearance Where Least Expected.

A Great Force of Savages Found on the Sonora Foothills in Mexico.

Tomson, Arizona, June 2.—The following has been received by our courier:

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OPERATING AGAINST THE APACHES, OROSURA, SONORA, May 28.—A courier has arrived at these headquarters bringing the alarming intelligence that the Indians have appeared in force near the little town of Nacori, fourteen leagues from here.

The authorities there have asked for reinforcements, as they are afraid of being attacked at any moment. There are only thirty soldiers, state troops, under Lieutenant Jesus Maria Morencio, stationed there at present.

When the courier left the Indians were killing cattle and desolating the country.

The official says that their trail was immense, and nearly all of them were on foot. This news is positive and can be relied upon.

The Indians have evidently had intelligence of Gen. Crook's approach, and deserted their ranches, the heart of the mountains. They are seeking safety and protection from the Americans by flight to the foot-hills.

It will be impossible for Crook's column to follow the Indians into the settlements, nor have we a force sufficient at present to drive them back again into the mountains, and thus will Crook's campaign probably be a total failure.

The general, perhaps, will start that is claimed for him, but skillful and experienced officers in Indian warfare, but he has undertaken entirely too much for the small number of his column, as these Indians have undisputed sway over a territory of 200,000, 300, miles in length and 200 in width, and which is entirely dependent, with the exception of a small Mexican town.

Gen. Crook is a strategist of no common order, and he may prove more than an equal for the general in this campaign. At least thus far he has escaped the latter, and his movements into the foot-hills secure him a garrison and all pursuits from Crook's column in the present campaign.

The Indian troops in Sonora are not acting in accord with Gen. Crook, and know nothing as to his plans and operations in this campaign, as on his arrival in the state of Sonora he entirely ignored the Mexican commander here, and did not notify him of his arrival on Mexican soil.

Capt. Bandula has ordered reinforcements to Nacori, and to the foot-hills, and not allow the Indians to make another invasion of the interior of the state.

Col. Solano Torres is here, and will assume command of the state troops if an invasion is attempted.

Col. Bandula's scouts have penetrated the Sierra Madres in every direction, and if Crook had engaged the Indians, as previously reported, the news would surely have reached these headquarters.

THE FATAL DROP.

Three Criminals Killed up Their Lives to Outrageous Justice.

OXFORD, N. C., June 2.—Robert Henderson was hanged here yesterday for the murder of his wife. The execution was a private one, but the few persons allowed by law being admitted within the enclosure. Despite the fact that the public was excluded an immense crowd was on hand to witness the execution. Henderson was perfectly calm. He dressed himself in the morning with unusual care, and informed the sheriff an hour before the time fixed for the execution that he was ready for his fate. He walked up the scaffold steps with perfect self-possession.

On the gallows the doomed man made a few remarks, in which he confessed that he murdered his wife, but did not express any regret for the dead. About an hour before Henderson was carried out of his cell quite a number of his Sunday school class called to bid him good-by. He talked with the children for some time in the most cheerful manner. The drop was drawn at 12 o'clock. The body was suspended for eighteen minutes, when it was cut down and given in charge of the murderer's friends.

Robert Henderson was a bright mulatto, 32 years old, and six feet nine inches high, considered the neighborhood and among his race to be quite a stylish man. For many years past Henderson had been an exhorter in the Baptist church and a regular attendant upon divine services. He had several times been detected in suspicious intimacy with some of the young females of his congregation. About seven months before the time of his victim, Henderson married her. She was eight or ten years his junior, and considered quite attractive.

The girl was a general favorite among his sex, and was sought by several well-to-do colored men of the neighborhood. Although it is believed the girl did not prefer any of them, she accepted his advances, and by some means finally induced her to wed him.

At the time of the marriage the husband was quite attractive to two or three other young damsels. These relations were continued after the wedding. On the 28th of October last an uncle of the bride called from Oxford, and found her quite ill. The husband said she had a chill and was then asleep. The woman's uncle insisted upon seeing her, but Henderson was equally persistent in opposing it.

It seems that a day or two before his wife was seized with the feigned illness which resulted fatally, the woman had complained of some slight trouble. Henderson advised her to take a dose of laudanum, a medicine that is prescribed in the south for almost every malady and ailment. She obtained a dose of the medicine, and it is thought the husband managed to substitute strichnine or some other poison, which was taken by the woman. The dose, possibly being too large, was slow in its action. To prevent detection and accelerate his victim's death, it is suspected that Henderson beat his wife with a switch until he had accomplished what more subtle methods failed to do. After the woman's death was discovered, the murderer refused to permit an examination to be held, asserting that she was his property in life and equally so in death.

A DOUBLE HANGING.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—John Bailey, aged 28, and Henry Wimbish, aged 23, negroes, were hanged yesterday. Eight thousand people were present, mostly negroes. Bailey murdered Parish Tappin, an old negro, last July, during a dispute over a dollar. Wimish killed Morgan Washington, a negro last June, which quarreled with Washington and sold Washington to "sheep," and he would soon kill him. Washington said "sheep," and Wimbish killed him.

The condemned men joined the Catholic church while in prison, and spent most of the time praying. This morning was spent mostly in devotional exercises, and ascended the scaffold with a firm step. They made only short statements on the scaffold.

Mangled by a Train.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., June 2.—Nicholas Miller, Jr., brother of Dr. Milburn, the blind man eloquent, and agent at this point for the Wabash coal mines, was mangled by a freight train and his left leg was so badly mangled that amputation just below the knee was necessary.
